What is the answer to the essential question, and why does it matter to me in terms of: Educational? Social? Cultural? Financial? Health? Vocational? Spiritual? I?	What is the answer to the essential question, and why does it matter to me in terms of: Educational Students are often unsure of what rights they have. In fact, they might even have questions about if they have rights at all. You might be surprised to know that even as middle school students, you have rights. What do you think are some of the rights you have (and don't have) as a student? Spiritual Most prayers and religious chants are symbolic of a person's spirituality. Think about your spirituality-what elements can you draw from in order to create chants? Social What can you do to be an ally to the various social movements in the modern day?	What is the answer to the essential question, and why does it matter to me in terms of: Vocational Literature is filled with characters who are driven to achieve certain goals. In "The Raven", for example, the narrator is driven to get rid of the raven. Even if the vocation you pick isn't world changing, think about your life, what do you think it means to be driven? Education "The Raven", along with many of Edgar Allan Poe's stories changed the literary world. Think about your plan to change the world. It might require you to attend college and graduate school or it might require you to learn a trade. Think about your plans for after you finish school? What are your options?	What is the answer to the essential question, and why does it matter to me in terms of: Educational Being a student requires more than simply memorizing information for tests, being a student requires a certain degree of educational curiosity.. What are some topics you are educationally curious about? What do you think it means to be educationally curious? Financial Being successful in school requires you to develop reading and writing skills that you can use to pursue your education and a vocation. In addition to reading skills, in order to be successful, you will need to have financial skills.. What do you think are the most important financial skills you need in order to survive your own	What is the answer to the essential question, and why does it matter to me in terms of: Spiritual People use their spirituality in different ways. For some people, spirituality supplies them with a moral code, while for others spirituality is a source of comfort and solace during times of stress. Regardless of how people use spirituality, many people's spirituality is influenced by spiritual narratives-stories that usually have a moral principle at the center. What spiritual narratives are important to you? Educational For every type of career out there, there is an education option to go with it. Whether you want to learn a trade or become a	What is the answer to the essential question, and why does it matter to me in terms of: Cultural Communities exist all around us, from the country we live in to your school! Think about your local neighborhood or your local town/city. What sort of elements make this a community? What factors determine what is or is not a community? Education Regardless of what you might think of her decision, the lady in the lady and the tiger while determining what's the current lover should meet. As a student, you probably aren't facing the decision as to the people you care about should be eaten by a tiger or not,, but think about the crises you have	What is the answer to the essential question, and why does it matter to me in terms of: Financial Everyone likes having money. However, when you have money, it is important that you try and save as much of it as you can. Saving money usually involves a certain degree of thriftiness and trying to find inexpensively priced goods and services. What do you think it means to be thrifty? Educational Part of being a good citizen is Advocating for In dealing with the government, advocating for yourself can involve writing letters to the government or elected officials and letting them know about your point of view. However, dealing with government officials isn't the only way you can be a self-advocate, you can be you can advocate for yourself at school. What are some of the ways you can advocate for yourself at school? Educational Nobody likes doing homework. However, what many students don't realize is that it allows you to reinforce what you learn in school. However, just because your homework is boring, it doesn't mean

		Social When we meet the narrator of "The Raven" we get the impression that he values his lost Lenore and a possible interpretation of the Raven's presence is that the Raven violates his trust. Think about your own values-when should a lack of trust be a deal breaker? At what point do you think lack of trust in someone should be a deal breaker? How should you react to something or someone who has broken your trust?	personal boom and bust cycles? Social As you go through life, you will meet lots of new people. Some of these people will come in and out of your life. While people come and go, people you can trust (and feel they can trust you) tend to stick around more. How can you learn to trust someone? What are some indicators of when you can trust somebody?	scientist, each job has a different degree or certificate requirement. Think about the careers you are interested in, how can you determine what degree you need? Vocational Although we have little use for paper dictionaries these days, looking up words manually will help you develop a strong work ethic. If you feel that you have a weak work ethic or the strength of your work ethic alienates you from others, what can you do to make your work ethic more manageable?	faced-especially in school. You might get a grade on an assignment that you think should be higher or you might think a teacher is treating you unfairly. If you think you are being treated unfairly, how can you speak up about it in a productive way? Spiritual As we go through our lives, we will all face crises. During these crises, people turn to a wide variety of sources to help keep them resilient-including their spirituality. How can you use your spirituality to prop up your resilience?	that you can't come up with any fun ways to work on your educational competency. What are some fun ways you can develop your educational competency?
