Wow. I see what you did and think it has great integration. By having the lesson plans "done" in a few clicks I can see how it would be transformative because it would allow for a teacher to have more time and open up the factual material to a more comprehensive discussion with students.

Yes. I'd like to see what Alex thinks as well. I know he's got some fire planned.

First. Let me preface this by saying that GOD is great. This lesson plan that Olay has provided is exactly the type of high-quality product that consumes teachers' time every week.

Second. The trick we are after is allowing for the selection of material by the teacher to automatically fill and generate this weekly planning document.

Please ensure that Walt is shared out on this with full permissions.

Great work on this lesson plan, Olay!

I was confused by the teacher overview and was a strong reviewer due to my having perceived that as being part of your presentation coming up!
